Reilly Arts Center Dedicates AdventHealth Mainstage in Celebration of Expanded Partnership

OCALA, Fla. (June 25, 2025) – The Reilly Arts Center hosted a dedication ceremony on June 25 to unveil the newly named AdventHealth Mainstage, marking the beginning of an expanded partnership between AdventHealth Ocala and the Reilly Arts Center. This milestone sponsorship deepens the long-standing relationship between the organizations and reinforces their shared commitment to the health and cultural vitality of the Ocala community.

Board members, supporters of the arts, and leadership from the health system gathered to celebrate AdventHealth Ocala’s impactful investment of $1 million over the next ten years to support the Ocala Symphony Orchestra and its home the Reilly Arts Center. The gift will support the operations of the center and allow the Reilly to continue delivering inspiring performances, educational programs, and community-centered initiatives through music and the performing arts.

“At AdventHealth, we believe that healing extends beyond hospital walls. By supporting the performing arts, we help nurture the mind, uplift the spirit, and strengthen the well-being of our community—because whole-person care includes the power of creative expression,” said Erika Skula, President & CEO of AdventHealth Ocala.

The timing of this investment is especially meaningful as the Ocala Symphony Orchestra will present its 50th anniversary season this fall, and its tenth held at the Reilly Arts Center which opened its doors in 2015. Since then, the Reilly has continued to expand its programming and footprint to include the NOMA Black Box theatre and the Ocala Symphony Orchestra’s Community Music Conservatory, which offers music lessons to students of all ages and skill levels.

“This partnership with AdventHealth Ocala is a powerful example of how health and the arts intersect to enhance the well-being of our community,” said Natalie McComb, Executive Director. “We are deeply grateful for their investment which ensures the Reilly Arts Center remains a home for creativity, connection and celebration for years to come.”
