MUSIC DIRECTOR AND CONDUCTOR MATTHEW J. WARDELL

Very early in my tenure here in Ocala, a dear friend of the symphony, Bob Reilly, helped coin our unofficial motto: "Your Orchestra, Your Music." Over the years—and especially now, as we embark on the Ocala Symphony's 50th Anniversary Season—that phrase has resonated with me in profound ways. What exactly is the music of the Ocala Symphony?

When I think about our music, I envision bold, exciting programs. I think of the great masters of the past standing shoulder-to-shoulder with the trailblazers of the present. I imagine a special emphasis on celebrating American works and music from our art's history that has been regrettably overlooked. Our incredible audience has come to expect performances of beloved works delivered at the highest level, while also being challenged and delighted by lesser-known masterpieces that leave them wondering why they haven't heard them before. Our dedicated musicians bring an infectious passion to rehearsals, diving into masterworks and pops repertoire with equal intensity and continually raising the bar with each performance. As Music Director and programmer, I am driven to uncover more—more depth in pieces we think we know, more hidden gems from composers both celebrated and overlooked, and more ways to connect with our community. These unique pursuits are the inspired hallmarks that make the Ocala Symphony truly special.

With this in mind, planning our 50th Anniversary Season was both a joy and a responsibility. After much research, listening, and reflection, each piece I've programmed was thoughtfully chosen and has deliberate meaning. This milestone season reflects the heart of "Your Orchestra, Your Music." It features repertoire that will absolutely thrill and delight, world-class soloists joining us from home and abroad, and a collective program that surpasses anything we've done before. The 2025-26 season is not only a celebration of our first 50 years but a bold statement that—with your continued support—your orchestra will be playing your music for the next 50 years and beyond.

We are deeply grateful for your support, and I cannot wait to see you this season. Thank you for being an integral part of this extraordinary journey. Let's make music together!

Sincerely yours, Matthew Wardell | Music Director and Conductor
